INTRODUCTION

c.1

In the preparation of the 1919 City Directory for Glendale and Casa Verdugo, no time nor expense has been spared to make the book one of value to the entire community. Every effort has been put forth to the end that the information contained in this volume should be correct, although the constantly shifting population makes absolute accuracy in a book of this kind impossible.

Valuable features which have been considered in compiling the book are:

1. A correct listing of the residents of the City of Glendale, giving the names of young children with the parents, and listing the names of adult children separately, thus giving the complete enrollment by name of all the people residing in the city.
2. A Householders' List, giving streets in alphabetical order and numbers consecutively, with the name of occupant or owner of the house, thus enabling one to learn at once who lives at a certain number on a given street.
3. An accurate enumeration of the population of the city, giving number of males and females.
4. Location of all the streets of the city, with relation to other streets.
5. A condensed history of the city and names of officers of churches, schools, clubs and other organizations.
6. Recognition of the men and boys who are or were in any branch of their country's service during the late war by a star following their names.
7. Valuable information in regard to the city government.

The publisher wishes to suggest to the citizens of Glendale that it would be to the interest of all people residing in the Glendale community to have a city directory published annually, and he wishes to make a further suggestion that the right to publish such directory be governed by the Greater Glendale Development Association, or a similar organization that has the community's welfare at heart.

It has been the aim of the publisher to get out a directory of merit, and the question of commercialism has not entered into the preparation of this work. However, it is a fact, on record in our office, that the cost of publishing this year's directory exceeds the money received for advertising and subscriptions by four hundred dollars. This additional expense is borne by the publisher, and his only reward is the satisfaction of knowing that the community has an authentic and exhaustive reference book.

The "get-money-easy" method which is practiced by the professional directory man will be all right for the publisher, but when the work is in the hands of such an individual the usefulness of the book is greatly lessened.

The publisher takes this opportunity to thank all those who assisted in making this volume the best Directory of the City of Glendale ever published.

A. T. COWAN, Publisher.

In the Heart of Glendale

Forest Lawn combines in one location every form of interment—earth burial, cremation, private vault, mausoleum crypt or columbarium niche. Situated among the hills whose slopes form an artistic background, it lends itself to the highest development.

The "Little Church of the Flowers" is modeled after the quaint old English church where Gray wrote his "Elegy in a Country Churchyard." Its cloistered arches open into conservatories of choice flowers, whence its name. The crematory and receiving vaults adjoin it.

The Mausoleum=Columbarium is a modern structure combining the results of years of technical study by architects, engineers and designers—built into the solid rock—of reinforced concrete and everlasting granite.

Tea Table Chat

In this glorious climate of California—God's Country—the beautiful sunrises, the beautiful sunsets, the blossoms of orange, lemon, peach, apricot; and, oh! the roses, gorgeous in their bloom and fragrance, the never-ending tints on the mountains, pink, blue, violet, gold and purple; Old Baldy with its snow-capped peak; the twittering of the song-birds; the beaches, with the ripple of the ocean as it ebbs and flows, the beautiful blue skies, moonlight nights, sunshiny days; its boulevards and scenic auto drives—all tend to make it a veritable Heaven on earth. The siesta, the afternoon tea in the gardens, sipping and enjoying Victoria's favourite blend tea, the tea that the late good Queen Victoria and her court were very fond of, blended and sold only by F. Booth, tea taster and blender, at $1.00 per pound. Tea pickings from the finest gardens of India, China and Ceylon. Phone for sample. Glendale 1434.

Yours truly,

F. BOOTH,

Tea Taster and Blender, from London, England.

Workmanship and Materials

¶ No expense has been spared in making the 1919 Directory a work that should be in every local citizen's hands. The compiling was done by men of experience and the composition and press work were executed by men who rank high as compositors and pressmen.

¶ The body of the book is printed on egg shell Dresden paper stock purchased from the well-known Sierra paper company. The inserts are Duchess coated book, also purchased from the above-named company.

¶ Not to make any mistake about the selection of inks, the California Ink Company was visited and it was decided to use their Quick Setting Black. The even distribution and the rich glossy appearance of the printed pages speak favorably of the high quality of this reasonably priced ink.

¶ A city directory is not suited for permanent use unless it is well bound, and that there might be no mistake about this part of the work, the job was placed in the hands of the Glass Book-Binding company at 438 Wall street, Los Angeles. An examination of the workmanship will convince you that this company does excellent work.

¶ Now, in concluding, may we ask you to recommend this directory to your friends, telling them of its worth in the office and in the home? The price is $4 per copy. Place orders early to insure getting a copy.
